SAM LOYD'S .

Here is a simple illustration of the calculations performed by the Chinese mathematicians with the abacus or "gridiron," as it is termed: A small merchant of Canton bought a number of fat pupples and rats, an equal number of each, paying two bits each for the puppy dogs and two bits for a pair of rats. He sold them at an advance of 10 per cent. When he had disposed of all but seven he had just received the amount of his first outlay, so that his profit was represented by

SOLUTION TO POOL GAME.

B and C, but in admitting D upon equal terms C becomes the loser and settles for the game. If D had made but one ball he would have been beaten. With two he would have tied with C. but with three or more he wins, as he knew of no private agreement. B pooled his issues with C as against A, but not against D. C, as low man, must first settle with the house, and naturally has no redress against D, nor much chance to recover from A, who has fairly beaten D. The acceptance of D upon even terms introduces a possibility which vitiates the first agreement, so

Regarding the pool problem, which is largely a matter of ethics and logic, it strikes the umpire that as A agreed to make as much as B and C together he failed to make good and would have to pay for any refreshments as between A, these seven animals. What are they worth at retail?
